Meet Clemens Fiedler

I'm 22 years old and live in Hannover, Germany. I study geography at the University of Hannover and plan to study landscape architecture after I complete my degree. I've played with LEGO® bricks for as long as I can remember, and my passion for medieval architecture and design was ignited early in life when my father's friend taught me how to forge metal. We started with small objects and then moved on to things like damask knives as well. It's a time-consuming process, but the results are really impressive.

I've always found that the best way to get new building ideas is to search your passions and interests and create something you can really identify with. So that's how the idea for a charming old Medieval Blacksmith's workshop was born. With 2,164 bricks, this model is packed full of details, too. I wanted to create a harmonious color scheme and stay true to the authentic architectural style throughout the set. The roof was a fun challenge! It has so many different elements and slopes. All in all, the original set took more than a month to create, including a digital version.

Thanks to everyone who supported this project across the LEGO Ideas platform, the amazing LEGO fans community and the LEGO designers! I hope you will enjoy traveling back in time, sense the heat, sounds and smells from the forge and anvil and soak up the atmosphere of this classical, creative craft as you build your set.

“ I love building classical house designs and honoring all the great attention to detail you can recreate with LEGO elements – especially medieval architecture styles, colors and design ”

Some of Clemens' early medieval builds

The LEGO® designers

Wes Talbott, LEGO® Design Master

This Medieval Blacksmith's workshop immediately caught my eye. I love medieval architecture – the very iconic half-timbered, wattle and daub style. I've seen other fans create large medieval dioramas, but we have never released an official model in this scale, with this much detail... until now! I love the layout of the building and the detailed exterior and interior. The concave bend in the roof adds so much to the character of the house. I hope you'll enjoy discovering all the little details in every nook and cranny of the set, live out your own medieval fantasy as you build and maybe go all in and create an entire medieval village.

Austin William Carlson, LEGO® Senior Designer

Working on this model took me back to all my favorite classical tales of knights and castles. It has been a while since we've released an official, medieval castle-themed set, and it was really fun to step back in time and rediscover that part of world history – and LEGO® history, too, of course – to help create something new that LEGO fans will hopefully love. Older Black Falcons Castle sets (1984–2002) were some of the most iconic and popular LEGO models ever, and being able to bring back these knight minifigures in this setting was a wonderful journey. Now go forth and build your own new heroic tales!

The LEGO® Blacksmith (Wes) and Knight (Austin)

LEGO® blacksmith sets

The first LEGO® Blacksmith Shop (6040) was released in 1984. A horse, a hardworking blacksmith and a brave knight provided lots of role-play fun. It would be 18 years before the next Blacksmith Shop (3739) came out in 2002 – a cozy workshop for a blacksmith and his wife, designed by fan designer Daniel Siskind under the My Own Creation theme, the forerunner for LEGO Ideas. As part of the medieval theme in 2011, the LEGO Group also launched a LEGO Kingdoms Blacksmith Attack (6918) with an evil Dragon Knight, and a hammer and anvil powered by a mill. The Medieval Blacksmith model (21325) is the biggest medieval set to date, with all the charm and authenticity of a classical medieval tale.
