This image provides a detailed view of the LEGO Technic model, showing the internal structure and the placement of the green and yellow components. The model is constructed using a combination of grey, black, and white Technic beams and connectors. The green components, including the large green beam and the green Technic bricks, are used to form the main body and the base of the model. The yellow components, including the yellow Technic bricks and the yellow Technic connectors, are used to form the internal structure and the base of the model. The model is shown from a side-on perspective, highlighting the intricate details of the construction.
